PROPERTY ASSESSMENT UPDATE

The Village of Whitefish Bay has contracted with Tyler Technologies to conduct a village wide revaluation for 2014. The goal of the revaluation is to create uniform, equitable and fair assessments so that each property bears its fair share of the property tax burden. The 2014 assessments will reflect current market value.

Property owners should expect to receive a notice of their 2014 assessment in mid-August 2014. The value on that notice is intended to represent the full market value of that property as of January 1, 2014, as indicated by comparable sales in the area. There will be an "open book" period after the notices are mailed, at which time owners may discuss the 2014 value with representatives of Tyler Technologies. The new assessed values of properties will be reflected on the tax bills in December of 2014.

Whitefish Bay
Farmers Market

Saturdays, 8am to noon
July 12 – October 4
Location: Berkeley Boulevard at Silver
Spring Drive

What a lovely summer! We are so pleased to see so many people out enjoying all the new offerings on Silver Spring Drive, with summer hours, outdoor seating and so many reasons to frequent the Shops of Whitefish Bay. The Whitefish Bay Farmers Market continues through the first weekend in October. With fresh produce, flowers and more – stop by Saturday mornings from 8am to noon. This year marks the fifth year of the market, and we have an expanded season and new vendors alongside your favorites from previous years.

The open air market runs Saturday mornings through October 4 on Berkeley Boulevard right off Silver Spring Drive in the heart of our downtown shopping district in the Village of Whitefish Bay. Throughout the season, the market will feature fresh and organic produce, meats, eggs, honey, flowers, kid's activities, and much more. The Whitefish Bay Farmers Market is a traditional farmers market with a green, local and educational focus. In addition, the farmers market includes entertainment and educational activities for all ages. Programming includes a story time at 9:15 and live music most weekends at 10am. We're enthused for the start of this year's farmers market here in Whitefish Bay. Based on the success and popularity of last year and the increased interest in local and healthy options, we are pleased to offer a fifth year of the successful farmers market to the greater community. Market sponsors include The Equitable Bank and Elements Therapeutic Massage. Special thanks to the Whitefish Bay Library for their participation.

The Tase Family: Living the American Dream

IN JUNE 1995, Marko Tase received a visitor visa and left behind his career and family to come to the United States with one hope: bring his family to this blessed land. This was four years after the collapse of communism in Albania, so it was a rare case to even come to America. Marko's cousin from Fox Point (first Albanian generation born in America) assisted Marko and welcomed him into her home. From the first day of Marko's arrival, he and his cousin started to project the future of his family. "For an entire year, I met new people and gained new hope." Everyday Marko was inspired by all the contacts from this community, which gave him more strength to accomplish his dream. Never had Marko heard such encouraging expressions before, such as, "Keep going, don't give up, keep trying, you will make it, keep faith in God, be happy. This was the real America, the real people, the real life which I wanted for my family. And this is why I chose this community." With all the support and friends Marko had gained, his year in America flew by and he headed back to his family in Albania, spiritually prepared to keep faith in God. "Four years later I won the lottery - a diversity visa gave us a chance to live and work in the U.S. as permanent residents. In 2000, my wife, Athina, and boys, Peter and Aldo, started a new life in WFB. We are now living our American dream together.”

Before September 2000, when he and his family immigrated to the U.S., Marko was, for more than 33 years, a teacher of foreign languages, English, Italian and Albanian Literature in Berat, Albania’s largest high school. Marko has a Bachelor’s degree of Arts and Letters from the University of Tirana, Albania. He is also the author of a book entitled Albania and Albanians According to Distinguished Foreign Travelers, which focuses on the memoirs and travel diaries written by historians, diplomats, generals, and heads of state who have visited Albania, from the ancient times until 1994. This includes the former UN Secretary General Javier Pérez de Cuéllar who visited Albania in May 1990 and is still today the first and only UN Secretary General to visit. This volume was written by Marko to support his hopes for a Doctoral degree in Albania. It was published in 2007 in a United States-based publishing house.

In his years in the U.S. Marko worked more than four years for the Service Department of Northwestern Mutual Life Inc. in downtown Milwaukee. After that experience, he worked as a Building Engineer for Tenor High School in Milwaukee. Presently, he is running his own business: L&M Estate Services.

Athina is known in her hometown of Berat, Albania as Dr. Ludi. She graduated from the University of Tirana, School of Medicine with a degree as a Medical Doctor. Just weeks before leaving for the U.S., she successfully completed a graduate program in the Public Health Administration, organized in partnership by the University of Montreal and the University of Tirana. For more than 20 years, Athina practiced internal medicine, specializing in pulmonary disease. In the years prior to moving to the U.S., Athina served as the Health Commissioner for the city of Berat.

It was during this time that Athina made the decision to move to the U.S. To her, abandoning her professional career as well as her political ambitions in Albania was a sacrifice well worth beginning a new life in America for her sons Peter and Aldo (17 and 12 at the time). Athina shares, “The America that many people like us sacrifice everything for, was built by ambition, vision and tremendous work ethic. It wasn’t just our focus, work ethic and optimism that got us to where we are however. Part of our success should be credited to the neighborhood, education system, and great family friends and mentors such as Ed and Marge Yochum and Charles and Judy Mulcahy.” Athina also credits the group members that surround her at the Milwaukee Country Club, where she has been extremely happy working for over ten years.

When Peter came to the States, he only attended Whitefish Bay High School for his senior year. The graduation ceremony was of great joy to his parents, as they got to appreciate and celebrate the first achievement of many with other great American family friends only one short year after moving to the country. They were living a part of their American dream. Enrolling at UW-Milwaukee, Peter pursued his passion for history and linguistics, which was a good approach for a new student coming into a new world. After UW-Milwaukee, Peter studied at the Les Aspin Center for Government in Washington, D.C. and also had internship at the United States Congress. Following his educational career, Peter felt the need to give back and pass along the American culture and way of living to other less fortunate countries of Latin America. He is now a returned Peace Corps volunteer, Paraguay 2007-2009. According to his parents, Peter has reaped the fruits of the real American soil, still in hard pursuit to realize his own American dream. Peter continues to stay focused and determined to make something of his parent's great sacrifice.

The cultural transition for Aldo was by far the easiest for anyone in the family. Only a few days after landing in Milwaukee, Aldo was enrolled at Whitefish Bay Middle School. He could not speak any of the language, however with the help of many dedicated staff members at the middle school and the Whitefish Bay community, he was able to learn and adapt quickly. It was the dedication of his teachers that made this transition a very smooth process for him. The next natural step for Aldo was attending Whitefish Bay High School, where he not only perfected his English, but also where he met his lifelong best friends. These Whitefish Bay friends and families made him feel welcome in the community and also played a significant role in shaping him and teaching him all about the "American" culture. Playing sports at WFBHS, especially being one of the captains of the football team, is what really taught him the life lessons necessary for the next phase of life. Such lessons and teachings he still finds valuable to this day at 26. Upon graduating high school, Aldo attended Marquette University, where he graduated with a Bachelor's in Biomedical Engineering.

Participating at the presidential inauguration in Washington D.C., Aldo's journeys to Australia and Europe, and being a Les Aspin Center for Government Alumnus are life events that all have their roots in Aldo's upbringing in the Whitefish Bay Community and the Whitefish Bay education system. At 26, over half his life has been spent in Whitefish Bay; therefore, this is where he calls home. Graduating from Marquette University was another token towards achieving the American Dream, but as far as he is concerned, he has a way to go yet. "This community has taught me how to not be complacent and to always keep looking ahead". The biggest challenge for Aldo was just like every other recent college graduate, what is the next step towards a real life? However he knows, fighting, working hard and keeping the big picture in mind will get him to where he wants to be.

Without a doubt the Tase family feels abundantly blessed to be given the opportunity to call the U.S., but most importantly, WFB, their home. Athina concludes it best, "The American soil is huge and rich with opportunity, but lucky are the ones who recognize and build on the fruits that this land of opportunity has to offer.

There is so much room in America for everyone, you can live as you please and if there is one thing that the America we came to did for us is that it rewarded us for our hard work and sacrifice."

Pedestrian Safety

As summer break for many schools begins to wind down in the next several weeks, North Shore Fire Rescue would like to provide some safety reminders to drivers and pedestrians alike. In the coming weeks, pedestrian traffic will increase significantly during the morning and afternoon “rush hour”, especially in the areas surrounding most North Shore schools.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), 4,280 pedestrians were killed in traffic related crashes in 2010 and another 70,000 were injured. This statistic equates to one crash related pedestrian death every 2 hours and a pedestrian injury every 8 minutes.

Following some simple recommendations can help make both pedestrians and vehicle operators safer.

What can pedestrians do to help prevent injury?

- Pedestrians should increase their visibility at night and in the very early morning hours by carrying a flashlight when walking and by wearing bright or reflective clothing.
- Whenever possible pedestrians should cross the street at a designated crosswalk.
- It is much safer to walk on a sidewalk, but if pedestrians must walk in the street, they should walk facing traffic.

What can drivers do to help prevent injury?

- Drivers should have their headlights or daytime running lights on whenever possible. The lights help provide early warning and better visibility to pedestrians who are crossing or walking in the street.
- Use extra caution and observe all posted traffic and speed signage, especially around posted “School Zones” and near crosswalks.
- Avoid using a cell phone or doing anything that may distract you from concentrating on driving.

Do your part to help ensure everyone can stay as safe as possible!

Next Month’s Article: Always Be Prepared! September is National Preparedness Month for FEMA. North Shore Fire/Rescue will explore some simple things to help ensure you are prepared when emergencies strike.

Parental Oversight in the Electronic Age

The Village of Whitefish Bay is a very safe community. Violent crime is extremely low; in 2013 there were five violent crimes in Whitefish Bay, and in 1980 there were 13. In over 25 years there has not been a sexual assault perpetrated by a stranger in Whitefish Bay. The rate of car accidents is also very low. In 2013 there were 146 accidents in Whitefish Bay; in 1980 there were 296. In 1980 there was no such thing as the Internet, personal computers, tablets or smart phones. There was no means of exchanging indecent photos electronically, there was no way for children to engage in on-line cyber relationships with sexual offenders, there was no way to purchase synthetic drugs electronically and cyber bullying was an unknown concept. Unfortunately all of these things have occurred in Whitefish Bay in the past year.

When used properly, the Internet can aid our children in the learning process, and smartphones can help keep parents and children connected. But when these devices are used improperly by our children, bad things can happen. The Internet in many ways is the “new wild west.” It is easy for criminals and those with evil intentions to hide. The size and the pervasiveness of the Internet make it extremely difficult for regulatory entities to monitor. The first line of defense for your children and the Internet is you, the parent.

When you first allow your children access to the Internet, or you give them their first smartphone, let your child know that this is a privilege that you are allowing them to have. Let them know that you will be checking their devices and their content on a regular basis. Then, check their devices on a random and regular basis. Checking their devices provides structure and safety for your children. Kids who know that their devices will be searched by their parents on a regular basis are provided a deterrent to engage in misbehavior on their devices. Knowing that their devices will be checked provides the child an easy out when confronted by outsiders requesting their participation in inappropriate or illegal activities. Checking your child’s devices and search histories, text messaging and social media usage can provide you with the insight to know if your child is being bullied or being approached by adults with potentially criminal intent.

Trust between children and their parents is an important part of the relationship. Setting boundaries early and being consistent and reasonable in enforcing these boundaries is even more important, for a child’s emotional well-being and especially for their safety. Regularly monitoring your child’s device usage is an essential step in keeping your child safe.

I was recently honored to be designated as the Distinguished Young Woman of Whitefish Bay. In February, I was planning my summer and was searching for opportunities that would allow me to be more involved in the community. I love the Whitefish Bay community, and I was motivated to give back to the community in the best way possible. That is when I came across a site called Distinguished Young Women.

The Distinguished Young Women program is a national scholarship program with a mission to inspire high school girls to find their talents, gain pride in their accomplishments, and reach their fullest potential. It is essentially a program that allows young women to become a distinguished individual in their communities by encouraging them to showcase their achievements to judges, including their physical fitness, performance skills, and their abilities to take a firm stance on their beliefs and values as well as to express this effectively. The Distinguished Young Women program has a Be Your Best Self Program as well, where participants are to encourage communities to "Be healthy, be involved, be studious, be ambitious, be responsible." By simply meeting these ideals, one can get the honor to win a medallion and be called as a Distinguished Young Woman.

Any junior girl can participate in this wonderful program, and it is never too late to start preparing for it. In my case, I found out about the program in February and participated in the At-Large Program in South Milwaukee at the end of March. At the At-Large Program, you are judged on your fitness by performing a dance that incorporates motions that allow the judges to acknowledge your agility, coordination, and strength; an interview that allows the judges to see how well-informed you are about the community and about the world; a self-expression speech, where you are to form a short impromptu speech on a broad question; and a talent performance, where you get to showcase your abilities for 90 seconds. (I played the flute for this part.) Along with all of this, the judges evaluate you on your academics, such as your grades, difficulty of classes, and so on. If a participant is able to meet the minimum points to become distinguished, she gets a medallion, along with the honor to participate in the State Program.

I will be participating in the State Program in August, where I will be spending a whole week with the sixteen other Distinguished Young Women of Wisconsin and help other communities with various projects. There will be a showcase on August 2, at the South Milwaukee Performing Arts Center, where we will all be performing our fitness choreography, talents, self-expression, and such. I encourage all of you to check it out if you are interested! That day, a winner will be chosen and will be representing Wisconsin at the National Program at Alabama, and many scholarships will be given.

I did not really understand how meaningful this program would become to me when I first went to the At-Large Program. I did not expect much and believed that this would simply be an opportunity for expressing myself as who I am. But once the program was over, I gained many life lessons and experiences through the interviews and performances. I recommend any rising junior girl (and younger girls) to look into this program and try it out! Who knows, you might be more distinguished than you think.
