DEAR RESIDENTS,

Education. It's a single word with such deep meaning that it impacts every facet of our lives, whether we're young or old or anywhere in between. Education exists on every plane possible, from international to local, to inside your living room.

Look back on your education. Recall a teacher who made a positive impact on your life. Perhaps you wouldn't be the same person today had it not been for that one special teacher, that teacher who inspired you, or challenged you to reach a new level, or made you feel better when you were down. Have you ever thought about contacting that teacher, about letting him or her know how much the experience meant to you?

Teachers here in Whitefish Bay mean a great deal to our residents, so much so that the Whitefish Bay Public Education Foundation works diligently to support the teachers who put in so much effort to educate our children. While this month's feature focuses on members of the Kampschroer family and their tremendous role in the Education Foundation, they are the first to note that it takes a whole village of dedicated community members to ensure the success of our children.

We want the best for our children, to develop not only their minds but also their character, so they can make this world a better place. Thank you to the wonderful supports in our community who make education a priority in Whitefish Bay.

All the best,

Josh

The Sandbox at Cahill Square Park:

A TREASURE THAT UNEARTHS THE BEST OF WHITEFISH BAY

Did you ever wonder why humans aren't born as adults (save for body size, of course)? Unlike adults, children have a natural curiosity and uninhibited imaginations. In a sandbox, a toy dump truck builds a mountain to the sky. A plastic hand shovel really can dig to China. In a world of imagination, the toys become instruments for children to interact in the real world, to learn how to share.

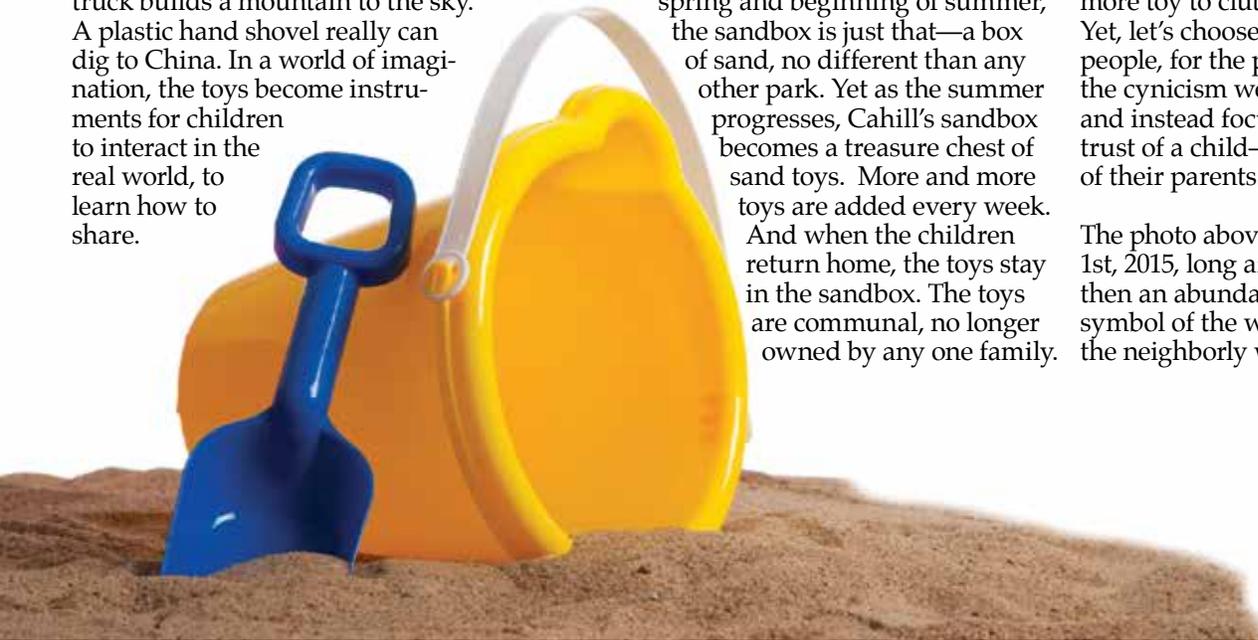

At Cahill Square Park in Whitefish Bay, sandbox toys unearth more than a child's innocent imagination. The toys reflect how adult residents share and add warmth to Whitefish Bay. In the spring and beginning of summer, the sandbox is just that—a box of sand, no different than any other park. Yet as the summer progresses, Cahill's sandbox becomes a treasure chest of sand toys. More and more toys are added every week. And when the children return home, the toys stay in the sandbox. The toys are communal, no longer owned by any one family.

By Joshua Becker

They're left there for all to enjoy, thanks to our generous residents.

Is it possible the families just forgot to bring the toys home, or didn't need one more toy to clutter their home? I suppose. Yet, let's choose to look for the good in people, for the positives. Let's put aside the cynicism we accumulate as adults and instead focus on the pure, innocent trust of a child—and the good intentions of their parents.

The photo above was taken on January 1st, 2015, long after summer ended. Even then an abundance of toys remained, a symbol of the warm weather ahead and the neighborly warmth we so cherish. ■

NORTH SHORE FIRE/RESCUE

North Shore Fire/Rescue: 9-Volts of Danger?

By Daniel B. Tyk, EMS Lieutenant, North Shore Fire/Rescue

Spring cleaning time is fast approaching. Did you know that the batteries we rely on to power our smoke detectors, carbon monoxide detectors and possibly even our favorite toys or electronics can be dangerous? That's right, 9-volt batteries can be dangerous if not stored or disposed of properly.

Due to the design of the battery, the positive and negative posts are in very close proximity to one another. Metal that accidentally comes in contact with both posts can create a short circuit, which could result in enough heat to start a fire.

It is unsafe to store 9-volt batteries in close proximity to metallic household items such as coins, paper clips, aluminum foil, steel wool or keys. Even weak batteries may have enough charge left to start a fire if they come into contact with metal objects. There are numerous documented cases of fires as a result of 9-volt batteries that had been disposed of in the trash, which came into contact with other metallic objects in the same trash bag.

Following these few simple steps will help you store and dispose of your 9-volt batteries appropriately.

STORAGE

- Always try to keep batteries stored in their original packaging. When this is not possible, always keep the posts of the battery covered with electrical, masking or duct tape to keep them from coming into contact with other metal object that can complete a circuit.
- Do not store 9-volt batteries in containers or drawers with other batteries.
- Store 9-volt batteries standing up whenever possible.
- Keep batteries stored somewhere safe where they won't be tossed around and have their casing damaged.

DISPOSAL

- 9-volt batteries should not be thrown away with regular trash since they can come into contact with other metallic objects. Instead, they should be taken to a hazardous household waste collection facility.
- To be safe, always cover the posts of the battery with electrical, duct or masking tape prior to disposal.

While we all know the importance that batteries play in powering the essential tools for our daily lives, we must always be sure we are using the utmost care when handling, storing and disposing of them.

For the Kampschroer Family, Education is the Key to the Village's Success

JOE AND LORI KAMPSCHROER

THERE IS NO GREATER INFLUENCE in a person's life than education, whether in the form of formal schooling, parental care, or community organizations. A family that encompasses all of these is the Kampschroer Family, not only for their own children but for the benefit of the entire Village of Whitefish Bay.

Lori Kampschroer, President of the Whitefish Bay Public Education Foundation, and her husband Joe, used to believe like many residents that from a financial perspective, "When our children started school here, our property taxes was enough contribution to our school district. As we became more involved in the district, we learned more about the local and state funding formula for schools and understood that with the spending caps that have been in place for decades that extra dollars raised locally can enrich the education our children receive from our public schools," noted Lori.

By the phrase "our children," Lori refers to all students as much as to her own two kids, Ellen, a Whitefish Bay High School senior and avid equestrian, and Melanie, a seventh grader at the middle school who's involved in church and school musical productions. "I am very proud to know that I am helping to provide not only for my children but for all students attending Whitefish Bay Schools the foundation for becoming responsible, contributing members of society as they grow and leave our community," emphasized Lori.

Just how do the Kampschroers and the Education Foundation go about reaching the goal of laying this groundwork? The answer is by supporting the teachers. The district's teachers, explained Lori, are great goal setters who wish to innovate new programs along with best teaching practices. These innovations require additional funding. "One of the major things that the Education Foundation has always done is grant funds, through the Ed Nuss Grants, to individual teachers with ideas for classroom improvement that the regular budget cannot support. The Education Foundation is very proud to have been the funding source for numerous teacher generated improvements in the district. These programs would not exist without the support of the Education Foundation," said Lori.

To name just a few of the funded projects, there was an initiative entitled, "hand-held learning" to implement technology through the use of Netbooks. The science department has benefited greatly with new meters in chemistry class and with new microscopes. Another program is the "Courage and Kindness Character Retreats" where students learn to build positive character traits.

For Lori and Joe, the foundation's work comes full circle. Ellen, their 17 year old who will venture to college next year, "was successful due to the support and freedoms she had in this district," Lori said, proudly. Much of these supports were provided for by the Education Foundation. Lori continued, "Our younger daughter, Melanie, is now reaping the benefits of the character initiative at the middle school. She is blossoming into a caring, conscientious, courageous person with great character and confidence. All this is due in large part to the programs that currently exist at the middle school."

Of course Lori and Joe do their share to grow their daughters' character traits. "I believe that we set an example for our children that community involvement is important and necessary. We believe that our children need to become contributing members of society and won't become that without a positive example set at home."

Joe and Lori set this example through their work in the Education Foundation. They co-chaired the 2010 Bay Ball, a tradition that continues to grow today. Dedicated community members also help to sustain another tradition called "Run the Bay," a fun 5k run/walk through the streets of Whitefish Bay that will be held this year on May 16th, 2015. The foundation has also begun to work together with the Whitefish Bay Civic Foundation in conjunction with Sounds of Summer, an annual concert. With many plans for the future, Lori noted, "The main thing the

MELANIE AND ELLEN KAMPSCHROER

Education Foundation needs is more dedicated board members to further its mission."

As parents, residents, and supporters of the Whitefish Bay Education Foundation, for Joe and Lori the goal of these programs are clear: "We believe that keeping our school district ranked high in the state prepares our children well for entering the world. We want to do what we can to keep our schools ranked high to continue to keep families moving to Whitefish Bay. We believe that our district is preparing our children well for entrance into the 'real world.' Good schools draw families, keeps our property values high, which makes economic recovery faster for our village and keeps interested, involved students and parents in our communities that work hard for our schools. We believe the Education Foundation makes a difference in keeping our district and community strong." ■

Ice Skating in Whitefish Bay

By Jeff Aikin, President of the Whitefish Bay Historic Preservation Commission

For decades, going back to the end of World War II, Whitefish Bay has endeavored each winter to provide a place for residents to ice skate.

In the 1950's, the village's tennis courts were used as the surface of the ice rink. Earlier records indicate that the high school football field was once flooded in the winter for ice skating.

A Quonset hut once stood at the approximate location of the current recreational building at Cahill Square, serving as a warming house for ice skaters. There were two vending machines in the warming house, one for cold beverages and one for hot drinks. The hot beverage dispenser included coffee, hot chocolate and hot Dr. Pepper (yes, Dr. Pepper was once marketed as a hot drink alternative).

In recent years, a group called the Friends of Cahill Square assumed responsibility for building the ice rink each winter. It was difficult work, since the rink had to be flooded during the evenings, and only when the temperatures were very cold.

Now that Cahill Square has been reconfigured to accommodate a water retention basin, there is no longer room for a skating rink, but the hills of the basin have become popular for sledging by young children. However, the Village continues to build an ice rink at Klode Park.

At least one national skating champion got her start on Whitefish Bay ice. Sally-Anne Kaminski is a three-time national synchronized ice skating champion, and at age 16, was a member of the USA team that won the silver medal in the world championships in Prague in 2001. She started skating at age eight and was competing by age 10. She is currently the skating director for the Wisconsin Edge Synchronized Skating Club. ■

Payments made via the website are processed on the next business day. The Village Board adopted the 2015 budget on November 17th. Included in the budget is an 8% increase to the local sewer user charge. Effective January 1, 2015, the rate increased from $3.07 per 100 cubic feet to $3.32 per 100 cubic feet. Residents receive utility bills on a staggered tri-annual basis (three bills a year for a four month billing period). Depending on the billing cycle, residents will see the new rate reflected on their bills beginning in March, April and June. ■

Local Sewer Rate Increase

By Jen Amerell, Finance Director/Clerk

How does the sanitary sewer system work?

As you flush your toilet or do your dishes, wastewater leaves your property via an underground sanitary lateral. These sanitary laterals connect to a local sanitary sewer main. These local sanitary sewer mains flow by gravity downstream to the Milwaukee Metropolitan Sewage District (MMSD) interceptor sewer. This interceptor sewer conveys sewage to Jones Island Treatment Plant where it is treated and processed.

What do my sewer user charges pay for?

The Sewer Utility accounts for the costs associated with the Village's collection and conveyance of wastewater from utility users. Revenue generated from usage fees is used to maintain the public sanitary sewer infrastructure, as well as the costs associated to treat the wastewater. Usage fees are calculated based on water consumption and connection to the sanitary sewer system.

In 2012, the Village Board approved a 15-year, $105 million Capital Improvement Project plan. In 2013, the Village issued over $4 million in debt to finance multiple sewer infrastructure projects and updates to the sewer system. The current rate increase is necessary to adequately fund the Village's debt service obligations. ■
